Reflection: Paying respect to those who have served

The Anzac Day public memorial service was led by Mayor Leigh Grey, in front of 300 attendees, honouring those who have served or continue to serve in the armed forces.

The 6th Army Cadets Unit were in attendance and provided a catallage party to the service.

Deputy Mayor, Cr Barbara Curran, along with Defence Force personnel, Brighton SES members, community members and representatives of federal and local government laid wreaths. Brighton Primary school students sang the New Zealand and Australian national anthems and Geoff Hall, Acting President of the Brighton Road Club, welcomed the Ode of Remembrance in honour of those who have lost their lives in wartime duty.

The Rotary Club of Brighton provided a free BBQ following the service.

Kitty: A purrfect way to turn Waste to Art

A range of fabulous artworks were created for the Waste to Art competition in March as part of the Big Weekend of Sustainable Living Ideas. The popular vote winner was Kim Nade with her work, "Kitty".

Brighton Council and Sustainable Living Tasmania partnered to run the Waste to Art competition, with entries on display at the Big Weekend of Sustainable Living Ideas. There was a range of high-quality works created by students from Brighton Primary School, East Derwent Primary School and St Paul's Early Learning Centre with kids aged three and above entering the competition.

Several artworks have been on display at the Bridgewater Library and some artworks have been purchased for permanent display at Brighton Council offices.

Brighton Council Mayor Leigh Grey said, "We are lucky to have so many sustainability initiatives in our local schools. We regularly see examples of Food Organics and Garden Organics (FOGO) recycling, growing produce on site, planting trees and are inspired by their climate change actions. All Waste to Art entries received sustainability prizes from the Brighton Council to support our local champions."
